

Please don't close Red Herring offices in Zurich!

Yesterday evening I heard rumors that Red Herring International wants to close down the European offices at Technopark in Zurich.

Alex, please don't do that!

Some Reasons:

#1: Farley Duvall is doing a great job there

#2: There were 7 Swiss companies among this years Red Herring 100.

#3: There is a good reason why Google is investing a lot of resources in Zurich

#4: Switzerland is a good test market for expanding Red Herring 100 companies

#5: Entrepreneurship is getting rapidly more popular in Switzerland because of initiatives like venturelab (a great partner for Red Herring)

#6: We're going to organize a regular Red Herring roundtable for Swiss entrepreneurs in Zurich (some Swiss entrepreneurs, Farley and Elizabeth had the idea yesterday evening)

I'm sure there are another GOOD reasons to not close down this office!

Alex, please think about it!
