

remo.fm has replaced chuchichaeschtli.com

Dear readers

As you might noticed I've just changed the domain name from chuchichaeschtli.com to remo.fm. I also used this event to change the url-structure of my blog—you now find the date in every url. Plus all other links (like categories etc.) are now in English (they were in German before because this blog started as a German speaking blog).

I was really happy that over 50 people have taken the poll about the domain name change. As I already said in that posting: I've already made up my mind that remo.fm would be the new name for this blog. I am very happy that the majority (55%) supports this decision. But I also had mixed feelings about the stunning 27% that didn't want me to change chuchichaeschtli.com. Sorry guys! I really appreciate the support for the former name. I love it, too!

I've spent the Sunday evening to make the transition as smooth as possible. I've set almost 200 htaccess permanent redirects to keep the "old" urls alive, ALL OF THEM! Please check some old links out and send me bug reports. I'm sure there are some typos and errors.

I also hope that the old RSS-feed urls are still valid. They definitively should be.

Welcome to remo.fm!

Remo

PS: One of my goals with this new domain name is to become No. 1 on Google.com for the search term "remo" within 12 months. I'm convinced this is possible :-).