Tesla Gigafactory Berlin-Brandenburg, currently under construction.

To me, Tesla is one of the most fascinating companies on the planet. They are at the forefront of the world's transition to sustainable energy and autonomous mobility, a multi-trillion dollar market. Also, Tesla is not just one company. They are basically a collection of startups.

Most people don't take the time to understand the company. This is why people often misunderstand Tesla. I don't blame them. It's very time-consuming to do so.

If you want to start to understand the company, you need to rent a Model 3 or Model Y for a weekend (or better, for a week or month). You really cannot understand the company if you have never experienced the product.

And then, after you've done that, here is my collection of the best Tesla news sources to keep up to date:
